This Bethany area in Jordan, sometimes referred to in the Bible as Perea, is not to be confused with the village of Bethany near Jerusalem, the hometown of Lazarus. The Bible recounts that Eljah parted the waters of the Jordan River and walked across it with his successor the Prophet Elisha, then ascended to heaven in a whirlwind on a chariot of fire (2 Kings2:5-14). The small hill from which Elijah ascended to heaven has been known for centuries as Elijah's Hill, and forms the core of the settlement at Bethany in Jordan. The ongoing survey excavations at Bethany in Jordan have uncovered a 1st Century AD settlement with Plastered pools and water system that were used almost certainly for baptism, and a 5th-6thCentury AD late Byzantine settlement with churches, a monastery, and other structures probably catering to religious pilgrims.

The jewel in Jordan's tourism crown, the capital of the ancient Nabateans is a world treasure. Petra is a marriage of natural and manmade wonders on an awesome scale. An entire city was carved out of the highly colored mountains some 2,000 years ago by a Semitic people from northern Arabia. The Nabateans created an empire based on trading precious incense and perfumes, an empire so rich it inspired the envy of mighty Rome, which ultimately conquered it.

Petra's mysteries unfold gradually, with the unforgettable approach through the Siq, a long, narrow and winding fissure between two overhanging cliffs. Bas-relief carvings of small gods and shrines adorn the rock walls, until at last, the gorge delivers you to the spectacular Treasury and the rest of Petra's secrets. Royal Tombs, houses, burial chambers, "high place" sacrificial altars and shrines are found at every level, from the canyon floor to the highest peak. Other major monuments reflect the synthesis of Greco-Roman and Nabatean style: a nymphaeum, theater, agora, temples and the colonnaded "main street" of shops. There are Byzantine churches, an Islamic mosque/tomb for Nabi Haroon (Aaron), and Crusader forts interspersed among peaks, valleys and the Roman-Nabatean remains. A day-visitor can cover just the major sites along the lower basin, with a climb to one of the farther monuments; but there is so much more to see.

Long before the Nabateans, the Petra area was inhabited by Stone Age people at nearby Beidah, and once was the capital of the biblical kingdom of Edom. The name of the nearby village, Wadi Mousa (Moses' Valley), comes from the legend that its spring of water was created by Moses when he struck a rock.
